

..... Wild Trails at Panna National Park.....

Panna National Park is a national park and a Tiger Reserve in the Panna and Chhatarpur districts of Madhya Pradesh in India. It has an area of 542.67 km² (209.53 sq mi). It was declared in 1994 as the twenty second Tiger reserve of India and the fifth in Madhya Pradesh.

This forest along with Ken Gharial Sanctuary form a significant part of the catchment area of this river. This river is one of the sixteen perennial rivers of Madhya Pradesh. The path of the meandering Ken offers some spectacular scenery. The park has a comparatively less population of Royal Bengal Tiger than in Bandhavgarh and Kanha. The Sal, Kardhai are the main trees in the forests.

There are two gates for entering into the National Park. The Madala gate is the best accessed from Panna. The second gate is Hinauta and is 25 kms. away from Madla.

The park lies within the tropical monsoon climatic zone, characterized by well-defined winters, summers and rains. Temperature as low as 5.2 °C and as high as 44 °C have been recorded. Average rainfall is 152 Centimeters, most of which falls during the monsoons. Some rains result from the cyclonic depressions as well, between the months of November and February.

Satna is the nearest train station (80 kms.) and Khajuraho is the nearest airport (35 kms.) Apart from their conservation values, the forests of Panna have a variety of tourism resources capable of providing rich and diverse cultural, historical, religious wilderness and adventure experience. Panna offers tremendous tourism potential being situated very close to the ancient temple down of Khajuraho, which is already on the international map of tourist destinations.
